

Site:

Hi!!! there welcome you've finally found the heart of my site. Don't let the name deceived you well I've got to admit there maybe some mystery in there but it's just a small part of what really HavenX.com is all about. I decided to write about us because this is where truly the heart of a site lies " A site without about us is a site without a heart" Do you Agree? Well, it just my opinion. Now where do I start? I guess it took me to long to write my own about us because really I don't know where to start. Ok I'll start from the very beginning. Back then I was really anxious to start my own personal website but due to owning your own website is way to expensive for me thinking the hosting and domain cost is way of the budget which you have to pay every year just like a rent. Since I only wanted a personal website I look over the internet to see if there are better free hosting that I can find to host my site just for a start. So, there I was I started my own website under a domain which they called subdomain which is only limited because you have to use the hosting name of your host where your files are hosted and the name of your site is under the host the that's why it's called subdomain unlike right now where technologies evolved there all lots of free hosting that lets you have your own name and if you don't have a domain name there are lots of free domain provider you can choose from like .co.cc and .cz.cc etc. Anyways back to my story I mean HavenX.com story how it began. I started December 23, 2007 After a year later I've finally purchase my own domain in April 04, 2008 the name which still the same name as my subdomain which is FancyFishHaven a site for fancy fish one of my hobbies partly to sell them and just have some fun seeing my stuff on the web share it with friends and family access it where ever I may be. But as time goes on technologies changes ans so as my vision. I've then decided to change the name since it's way to long to remember it was really hard for me to let go of the name but I have to it's now or never. In order for me to accept leaving the site name at least I have to take some part of it to remember. The last word was the first that comes in my mind to remain a piece of my old site to remember with and somehow easier to remember with just six letter word and so there it was HavenX.com was born. I acquired the name February 15, 2009. Little did I know the name HavenX.com was an expired domain lucky for me it was dropped by the old owner. I've took a little research and found out a little information about it somehow the data I've gathered it last aired August 07, 2003 don't know if it's still aired on succeeding years prior to when I purchase the name. Don't know why the owner dropped the name. Wish I knew the owner and ask him/her why? Hope he/she likes what I did with it now. But then again that's all in the past. I forgot to mention the X thingy care to know why I chose it? I chose it first of all partly to put some mystery and curiosity in it. Second thing it's because I can't think of better way to describe the site with all the stuff and functionality I've added I think it's fairly right to use the X thingy. And third but not the least when reading and pronouncing the the word and the letter combined it's kinda smooth no pauses instead the other way around. I guess that's all for now. Well, that wasn't so hard. phew... 🍷

Site Project

Written by WatchTower

Monday, 11 August 2008 12:22 - Last Updated Friday, 18 November 2011 04:12

Forum:

I added forum for the community to interact with each other Discuss things to let the community member get closer with each other.

Games:

After a months of long wait I decided to add some Games as part of our site project to spice up your life a little we added Games that most people are fond of like Free Online Games, Free Games, Arcade Games, Flash Games, Shockwave. Games are then Categories for easy search this you will be able to save some time finding your favorite Games we categorized them in a very orderly manner such as you won't have to go scrolling pages for Games that you don't want you can simply go on each designated menu like for example if you want Action, Adventure Board Game, Driving, Education, Fighting, Puzzles, Shooting, Sports, Strategy etc. we collect some of the finest games available in the Internet.

Blog:

Available every member can blog their own topic but I've disabled it and still undecided whether to remove it or let it stay since it will it up lots of space.

Marketplace:

To sell community members stuff online who wanted to buy and sell their products online.

Site Project

Written by WatchTower

Monday, 11 August 2008 12:22 - Last Updated Friday, 18 November 2011 04:12

Video:

Linking their favorite anime videos, Series and sharing with community members and friends no uploads it's fairly too much for a small community site to handle.

Social Networking:

For community members to have the ability to add friends I guess it wouldn't hurt.

Messaging:

The utmost important part of this site specially in communicating with buyers and seller.

Chat:

Added chat for general discussion basically to talk and have fun...